Chess Review: These are not just lessons, they are real chess reviews. My missions are to find where the fastest player in the world is and how can a person reach such levels. I looked at some players ChessBase has, some of them are still really strong! These reviews are extensive and go back to pieces of my previous courses. Chess Club: This is a huge weapon in your chess arsenal. You'll be a heavyweight by the time you're done with it. You'll be trained to think strategically, how to assess the position, and how to go all the way with just your "pawns". Again, it's simply my personal philosophy of things which I have translated into books and now also into these courses. So in case anyone is having problem in understanding a position in the middlegame, opening, ending or anything else, do check his courses. It will be a great help to anyone who is serious about improving their chess game. I am Vikram from delhi india. I have started playing chess about 3 months ago and I am in the 10th standard and I have been playing the chess games (chess training camps) to improve my game and the materials provided by you are great. The most important and the most effective thing when you are playing chess with your opponent is to either attack his king, or to keep a constant pressure against his kingside. This will reduce the kings aggressive moves and will make your game easier.

Thank you so much for this course. Once again:
Thank you very much! GM Smirnov has totally opened my eyes in how to actually start to attack. If you know how to attack, then you have certain chances to win the game. I was always assuming, if I know how to attack, my opponent will not be able to defend himself and he will be in trouble. I have not been so wrong in all my years of playing chess!

as i mentioned above, i think chess is a super sport with so many other attributes than many people think. you need to have technical skill, tactical talent, positional sense, decision making, patience and more. the latter is the most important attribute of the game. you need to have the ability to think ahead what your opponent is going to play. you need to think about counterplay, what your opponent wants to achieve. you need to control the center and you need to make yourself a more or less positional advantage. this is the most important and least known part of chess, which is not taught in any chess books. it is something that is taught in the best chess schools, but most of them are only theoretical and not practical. although my name is student, i am a grandmaster, and im also a chess coach. i started playing chess when i was 7 years old. i was fascinated by this super sport. i was always eager to learn something new and improve my skills. however, it wasnt something i could easily do. i didnt have the resources or knowledge to learn the game. i started playing chess seriously when i was about 30. for me, it was something like a super sport. it was the first time i was able to play long games with a lot of tactics. it wasnt only fun, but it was also very useful. i used to play blitz and time control games with my friends and start analysing our games after each game. there wasnt a chess book around, so i had to spend a lot of time analyzing the games. i would use my pocket chess set and my chess set and i would try to understand every idea that i learned from the games. i wouldnt say that i became a grandmaster, but i did improve a lot and i found my chess coach, who taught me the most important things about chess. 5ec8ef588b
